

Patent Application of Paul Bayon
For System to reorganize how television channels are displayed

I claim:

- 1) A system that receives in the television channels but allows the user to reassign the order in which the channels are displayed into their own personally desired sequence.
- 2) The system of claim 1 would also allow programming for multiple users, through use of a user identification code for each user, to set up their own alternative display order.